

ALERT SYSTEM OF AN ACCOUNTING OFFICE

Members:
Paulo Ramos
Josue Rojas

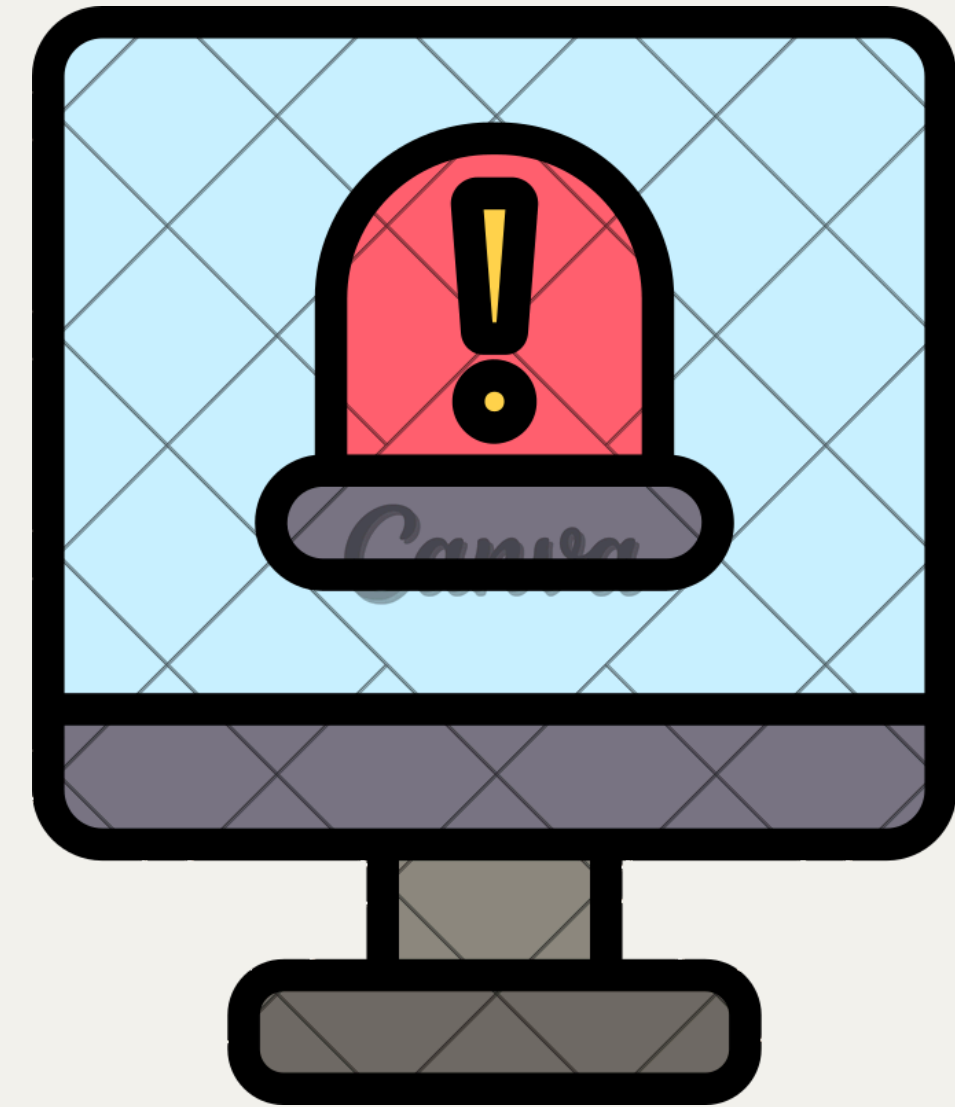

OOP

PROBLEM

In the accounting office, the lack of an automatic alert system causes confusion and delays in submitting documents on time, affecting organization and compliance with client obligations.

Overview

We will develop an alert system that will notify you of upcoming document and activity deliveries and deadlines. In addition to providing access to client information, the system will also include a tool to record and calculate the costs associated with each transaction, facilitating resource control and planning within the accounting office.

